

LO: to describe the characters emotions.

Look at the pictures below.

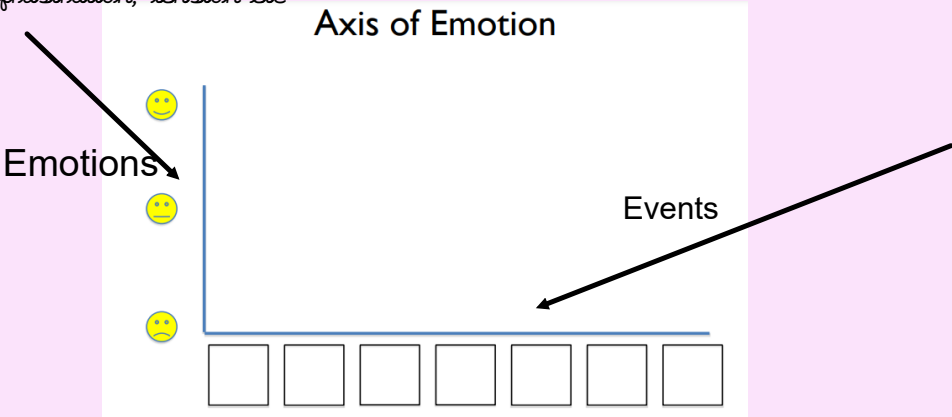

How many words can you use to describe how Cicada is feeling?

Look at the example of an 'Axis of Emotion' below and discuss.
What does it show? How is it set out?

The Axis Of Emotion gives you an opportunity to plot the emotional journey of a character through a story. The axis is a graph with time/events along the X axis and unhappiness up to happiness charted along the Y axis. You can of course label the graph according to what you wish to measure eg anger, frustration, tension etc

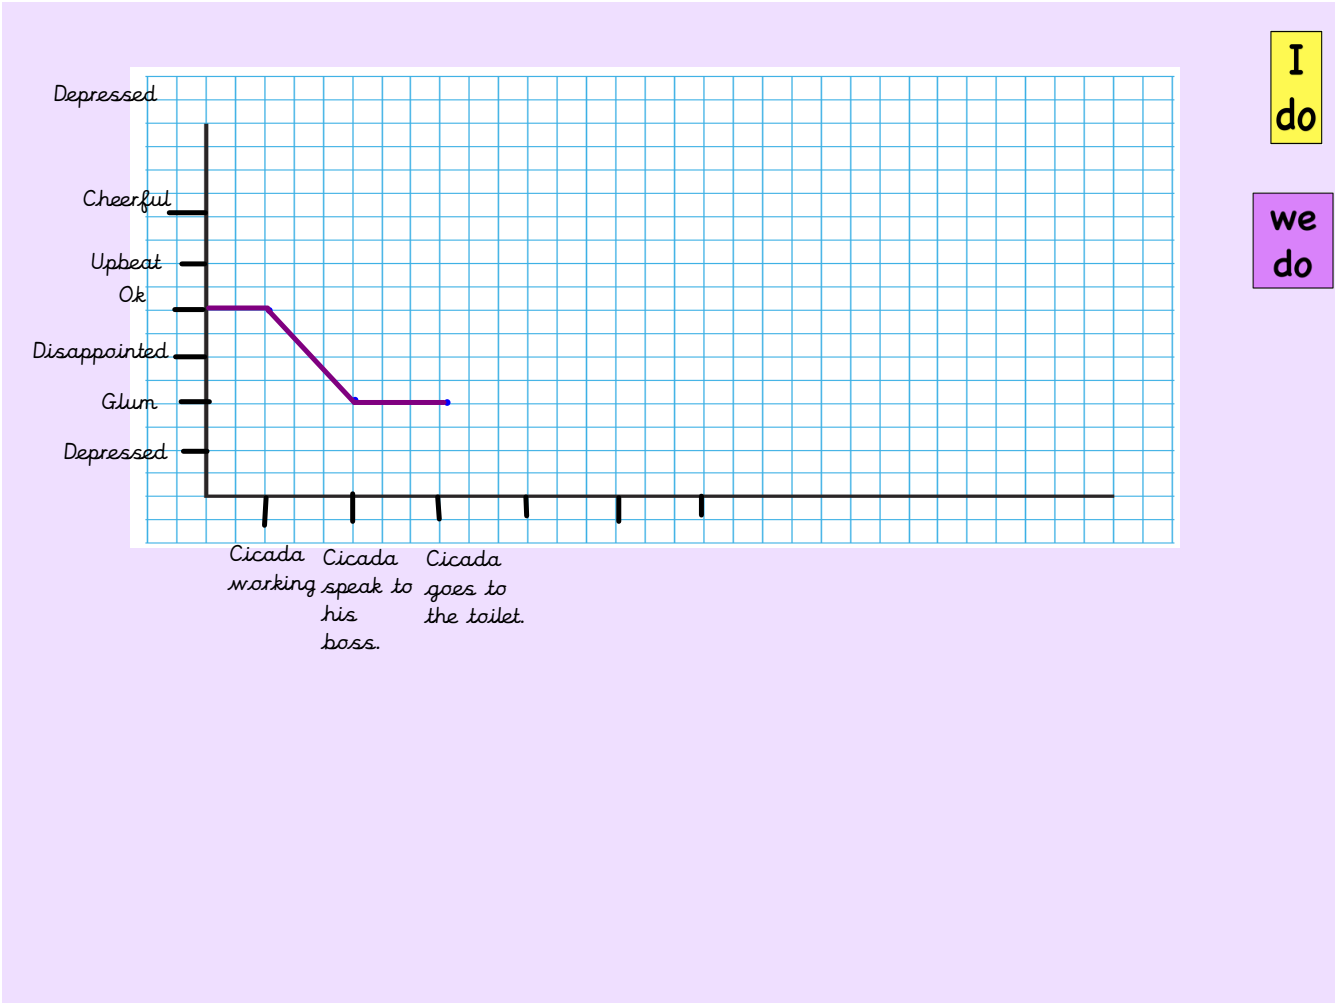

Today we will be focusing on the feelings of Cicada throughout the story and how they change using an emotion graph.

A blank emotion graph template. It consists of a vertical line on the left with six horizontal lines extending to the right, and a horizontal line at the bottom extending to the right.

Using the words on your WB from the start of this lesson.
Can you put them in order?
Uplevel your word choices.

Using the pictures can you now name the events in each picture.
