Moses went back to Egypt and asked the Pharaoh to free his people. The Pharaoh did not want to lose his slaves so he refused. God was angry and unleashed ten plagues on the Egyptians: blood, frogs, lice, wild beasts, pestilence, skin disease, hail, locusts, darkness and slaying the first born. It was the tenth plague that finally made the Pharaoh let them go. The eldest son in every family, including the Pharaoh's, died. The Israelites marked their doorposts with lamb's blood so that they would be safe. God could 'pass over' their houses and spare them. This is why the celebration is called Passover.

- Why would Pharaoh keep the Hebrews as slaves?
- Why would Pharaoh grant the slaves freedom?

6) Leading the children of Israel out of Egypt

There are 3 more key events of Moses' life:

- Leading the children of Israel out of Egypt
- Crossing the Red Sea
- The Covenant at Mount Sinai

As we are reading about them, be thinking of how these events have brought freedom to Moses' people.

6) Leading the children of Israel out of Egypt

Pharaoh told Moses "You and the Israelites must leave my people at once." The Egyptians begged the people to leave the country quickly. They said, "Soon we'll all be dead!" So the people picked up their bread dough before it had risen and carried it on their shoulders in bowls, wrapped up in their clothes. The Israelites did what Moses had told them and asked the Egyptians for gold and silver jewelry and for clothes. The Lord made the Egyptians generous to the people, and they gave them what they asked for. So the Israelites stripped Egypt of its wealth. The Israelites left Rameses to go to Succoth. There were about six hundred thousand men on foot, plus all the women and children. Many other people also went with them, along with large numbers of sheep, goats, and cattle.

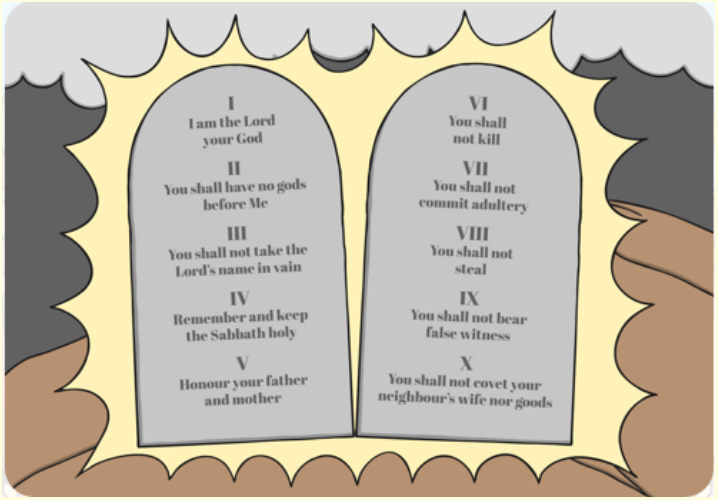

7) Crossing the Red Sea

The Israelites fled but soon after the Pharaoh changed his mind and sent his army after them. The army chased the Israelites to the banks of the Red Sea where they were trapped. God told Moses to lift up his rod and as he did so the waters parted to make a dry path. When all the Israelites were safely at the other shore, Moses raised up his rod again and the water closed on the Pharaoh's army who had been chasing them. God had saved the Israelites once more.

8) The Covenant at Mount Sinai

After three months of travelling, the Israelites arrived at the foot of Mount Sinai, where God called Moses to meet him at the top of the mountain. At the top of the mountain, God gave Moses ten important laws. These laws were called the Ten Commandments and would tell the people how to live. Moses promised God that the Israelites would keep all of the Ten Commandments.
