How did Gandhi overcome the bad times?

Why do you think he chose to do it this way?

Write your answers in your book.

Do you think this approach was successful? Why/why not?

I do

I think that the non-violence approach was successful because it brought the community together. It gave everyone a sense of togetherness and self-belief, whilst strongly getting the message across. However, even though Gandhi took the non-violence approach; others did not follow. This resulted in some of his followers been cruelly beaten.
