We do

1. In your pairs put one English book on top of the other.
2. The author of the book on top reads aloud their work to their partner. They are only allowed to edit in their own book.
3. Partner gives feedback to edit and improve.
4. Swap!

Will we find out what the noises are? We do

Build up the tension - create atmosphere.

Lucy is about to look at the hole in the wall.

What will Lucy be thinking?

What will she be feeling? How can we show and not tell this?

Describe the hole.

Let's write the final part of our prediction.

I do

Will we find out what the noises are?

If so what are they?

If not what will happen next?

Drilling into the wall, Dad's hands were I do violently shaking as the rest of the family made a circle around him. Sweat was dripping off his brow as Lucy glanced at her mum. As the drill's screams filled the room, Lucy's mum put her hands over her ears. The whole family eye's were glued to the ever growing hole that was becoming on the wall. Suddenly, the drilling stopped. "I've finished!" announced Dad. The hole was about the size of a 2p coin.

After all this time they were finally going to find out what the cause of the noises were. In unison, they all took a step forward. Then another. Then another. "I can't do it!" cried Lucy as she buried her head into her mum's body. Mum gave her reassuring squeeze, "Yes you can!"

Every breath could be heard in the room. Lucy's stepped forward with her foot trembling, clenching her sweaty fists as she became within centimetres of the hole in the wall. Placing her eye perfectly in front of the hole she gasped! "You will never believe this!"

You do

Write the final part to your prediction.

Things to think about:

- Building tension
- Using figurative language
- Show not tell!
