Friday 2nd July 2021

LO: To answer comprehension questions

You are going to be creating an informational leaflet about King Arthur and his knights.

Here is my WAGOLL:

KING ARTHUR

Want to find out all about King Arthur? Well look no further. This leaflet contains all the information you could possibly want about to know about the brave and strong knight himself!

Who was he?

Arthur's parents were King Uther and Queen Igraine of Camelot. They were told they couldn't get married, but then a wise wizard named Merlin granted them their wish, but only if they gave him their first born child. When Arthur was born, he was given to Merlin, who then gave him to Sir Ector and his family.

The sword in the stone

When Arthur was older, The King Uther fell ill and died. The people in the kingdom fought over who would become the next king. A sword appeared in a stone, and Merlin told the people that whoever pulls the sword out of the stone would be the true king. Arthur managed to pull the sword from the stone easily, and he was crowned king.

The round table

While he was King, Arthur fell in love with a woman who was named Guinevere. They got married and for a wedding gift, Guinevere got Arthur a huge round table that seated 50 knights. Arthur filled the round table and the knights went on many quests to save Camelot.

True or not?

Although the legend of King Arthur is well known across the world, it is debated whether or not any of the story is true. Historians can't find any evidence to prove that King Arthur was a real person, but the legends are notorious.

In the tales of King Arthur, There are a multitude of magical creatures such as dragons, fairies and wizards. Historians say that if King Arthur was real, then he would have probably been just a brave knight who fought in many battles, rather than being the brave knight we hear about in the legends.

KING ARTHUR

Want to find out all about King Arthur? Well look no further. This leaflet contains all the information you could possibly want about to know about the brave and strong knight himself!

Who was he?

Arthur's parents were King Uther and Queen Igraine of Camelot. They were told they couldn't get married, but then a wise wizard named Merlin granted them their wish, but only if they gave him their first born child. When Arthur was born, he was given to Merlin, who then gave him to Sir Ector and his family.

The sword in the stone

When Arthur was older, The King Uther fell ill and died. The people in the kingdom fought over who would become the next king. A sword appeared in a stone, and Merlin told the people that whoever pulls the sword out of the stone would be the true king. Arthur managed to pull the sword from the stone easily, and he was crowned king.

The round table

While he was King, Arthur fell in love with a woman who was named Guinevere. They got married and for a wedding gift, Guinevere got Arthur a huge round table that seated 50 knights. Arthur filled the round table and the knights went on many quests to save Camelot.

True or not?

Although the legend of King Arthur is well known across the world, it is debated whether or not any of the story is true. Historians can't find any evidence to prove that King Arthur was a real person, but the legends are notorious.

In the tales of King Arthur, There are a multitude of magical creatures such as dragons, fairies and wizards. Historians say that if King Arthur was real, then he would have probably been just a brave knight who fought in many battles, rather than being the brave knight we hear about in the legends.

Today, we are going to answer some comprehension questions using this WAGOLL...

KING ARTHUR

Want to find out all about King Arthur? Well look no further. This leaflet contains all the information you could possibly want about to know about the brave and strong knight himself!

Who was he?

Arthur's parents were King Uther and Queen Igraine of Camelot. They were told they couldn't get married, but then a wise wizard named Merlin granted them their wish, but only if they gave him their first born child. When Arthur was born, he was given to Merlin, who then gave him to Sir Ector and his family.

The sword in the stone

When Arthur was older, The King Uther fell ill and died. The people in the kingdom fought over who would become the next king. A sword appeared in a stone, and Merlin told the people that whoever pulls the sword out of the stone would be the true king. Arthur managed to pull the sword from the stone easily, and he was crowned king.

The round table

While he was King, Arthur fell in love with a woman who was named Guinevere. They got married and for a wedding gift, Guinevere got Arthur a huge round table that seated 50 knights. Arthur filled the round table and the knights went on many quests to save Camelot.

True or not?

Although the legend of King Arthur is well known across the world, it is debated whether or not any of the story is true. Historians can't find any evidence to prove that King Arthur was a real person, but the legends are notorious.

In the tales of King Arthur, There are a multitude of magical creatures such as dragons, fairies and wizards. Historians say that if King Arthur was real, then he would have probably been just a brave knight who fought in many battles, rather than being the brave knight we hear about in the legends.

Questions (post-its)

I do 1. How is Arthur described in the introduction?

We do 2. Who were Arthur's parents?

You do 3. Who was Arthur given to as a baby?

You do 4. Why was Arthur eventually crowned king?

You do 5. What do historians think the real Arthur probably was?

Sentence work

I do 1. In the introduction, Arthur is described as...

We do 2. Arthur's parents were...

You do 3. When he was born, Arthur was given to....

You do 4. Arthur was crowned king because...

You do 5. Historians say if Arthur was real, he was probably....