You do: Convert this paragraph from present to past tense.

One evening, Mordred, Morgan le Fay's son, visits Arthur and tells him that he has seen Lancelot and Guinevere together. Arthur doesn't want to do it but he agrees to set a trap for the two. Guinevere tells Arthur that she is going to go riding and when she leaves, she is followed by Mordred and some of Arthur's knights. As soon as Guinevere meets Lancelot in the forest, Mordred and the other knights come rushing out. Lancelot is able to get away but they capture Guinevere.
