Discussion:

Which person do you think solved the mystery of the monarch butterflies?

Why do you think people were so interested in the Monarch butterflies?

Organise the text:

Villagers and farmers in central Mexico who helped Ken and Catalina to follow the Monarchs by directing them higher up the volcanic mountains.

Ken and Catalina the American adventurer who followed the monarchs to Mexico.

Fred the Canadian scientist spent 30 years studying monarch butterflies and tagged their wings to track their journey.

Catalina who crunched through early-morning snow and high into the Sierra Madre Mountains to find the butterflies.
