

Geography!

Thursday 24th June 2021

LO: To use Digi maps to investigate the features of the places where the Anglo-Saxons settled.

Starter: Sentence work

We know the Anglo-Saxons came to yorkshire because...

Our key question this half term is:

Is Yorkshire really the most Anglo-Saxon county?

That means we are going to be:

- Examining how the Anglo-Saxons travelled to England
- Researching where they traveled
- And investigating why they settled where they did.

Text: Anglo-Saxon places

Anglo-Saxon places

When the Anglo-Saxons travelled over from Denmark, The Netherlands and Germany, they settled all across Britain. One of the main places they settled was Yorkshire, and the evidence of this can be seen in our DNA, and in the names of the towns we now live in. Some of the larger places the Anglo Saxons lived were York, Bradford and Pickering.

There were many reasons the Anglo-Saxons chose to settle in these places. Back then, much of the land in England was covered in forest. But rivers and streams were still there, just as they are now. They chose to settle near rivers so they could travel, trade, and collect water.

They also looked at the height of the land and the surrounding landscape, so they could protect their villages and forts easier.

Key Vocabulary:

- settle - stay to live
- surrounding - what is around you
- landscape - area that can be seen at once from a place
- evidence - proof

Post-It Questions

Anglo-Saxon places

When the Anglo-Saxons travelled over from Denmark, The Netherlands and Germany, they settled all across Britain. One of the main places they settled was Yorkshire, and the evidence of this can be seen in our DNA, and in the names of the towns we now live in. Some of the larger places the Anglo Saxons lived were York, Bradford and Pickering.

There were many reasons the Anglo-Saxons chose to settle in these places. Back then, much of the land in England was covered in forest. But rivers and streams were still there, just as they are now. They chose to settle near rivers so they could travel, trade, and collect water. They also looked at the height of the land and the surrounding landscape, so they could protect their villages and forts easier.

I do 1. Where did the Anglo-Saxons travel from?

We do 2. Where can evidence that the Anglo-Saxons settled in Yorkshire be found?

You do 3. Why did the Anglo-Saxons settle in near rivers?

You do 4. Why did the Anglo-Saxons settle on higher land?

Text: Anglo-Saxon places

Anglo-Saxon places

When the Anglo-Saxons travelled over from Denmark, The Netherlands and Germany, they settled all across Britain. One of the main places they settled was Yorkshire, and the evidence of this can be seen in our DNA, and in the names of the towns we now live in. Some of the larger places the Anglo Saxons lived were York, Bradford and Pickering.

There were many reasons the Anglo-Saxons chose to settle in these places. Back then, much of the land in England was covered in forest. But rivers and streams were still there, just as they are now. They chose to settle near rivers so they could travel, trade, and collect water.

They also looked at the height of the land and the surrounding landscape, so they could protect their villages and forts easier.

Key Vocabulary:

- settle - stay to live
- surrounding - what is around you
- landscape - area that can be seen at once from a place
- evidence - proof

Sentence work:

Anglo-Saxon places

When the Anglo-Saxons travelled over from Denmark, The Netherlands and Germany, they settled all across Britain. One of the main places they settled was Yorkshire, and the evidence of this can be seen in our DNA, and in the names of the towns we now live in. Some of the larger places the Anglo Saxons lived were York, Bradford and Pickering.

There were many reasons the Anglo-Saxons chose to settle in these places. Back then, much of the land in England was covered in forest. But rivers and streams were still there, just as they are now. They chose to settle near rivers so they could travel, trade, and collect water.

They also looked at the height of the land and the surrounding landscape, so they could protect their villages and forts easier.

- The Anglo-Saxons travelled from _____ and settled in _____.
- The Anglo-Saxons settled near rivers because...
- The Anglo-Saxons chose to settle on higher land because...

Text: Anglo-Saxon places

Anglo-Saxon places

When the Anglo-Saxons travelled over from Denmark, The Netherlands and Germany, they settled all across Britain. One of the main places they settled was Yorkshire, and the evidence of this can be seen in our DNA, and in the names of the towns we now live in. Some of the larger places the Anglo Saxons lived were York, Bradford and Pickering.

There were many reasons the Anglo-Saxons chose to settle in these places. Back then, much of the land in England was covered in forest. But rivers and streams were still there, just as they are now. They chose to settle near rivers so they could travel, trade, and collect water.

They also looked at the height of the land and the surrounding landscape, so they could protect their villages and forts easier.

Key Vocabulary:

- settle - stay to live
- surrounding - what is around you
- landscape - area that can be seen at once from a place
- evidence - proof

Digimap!

<https://digimapforschools.edina.ac.uk/login>

Some of the features of the areas where the Anglo-Saxons settled are: