LO: To explore colour mixing and varying tone in watercolours (pg 72)

Today you are going to experiment with mixing colours in your watercolour box to make new ones. You can make much better paintings if you mix your own colours and use a lot of different colours, than if you just paint with colours straight from the tin.

Remember not to scrub with your brushes and not to leave them standing in the water.

You need to wash your brushes between colours and change the water frequently.

Instructions
Choose one colour from the tin and paint a dab of that in the first cloud. (resource sheet)
Wash your brush and choose another colour and paint a dab in the next cloud.
Mix the 2 colours together and paint the new colour after the equals sign.
