Monday 14th June

LO: to infer

Look at this illustration on the front cover of our new book. You are going to make inferences using this illustration.

What do you think will happen?

Does it remind you of any other stories?

Where do you think it is set?

Which animals do you think might be in this story?

Why do you think there is a clock? What does the time tell you?

Why is the clock so large on the page?

What do you think the title of the book is?

Now we are going to make a mind-map with our ideas around the illustration.

In the corner, there is a green creature which looks like it will destroy the clock tower. I think this because he has large claws.

I do

As the clock strikes nine, dark shadows emerge across the sky.

In the corner of the picture, I can the toes of a green creature which makes me think that there will be some animals in this story.

I predict the clock is so gigantic because something strange might happen at that time.

It reminds me of the story of Sherlock Holmes or Peter Pan because it looks like it is set in London, there is a clock and there is a dog.

nocturnal

We do

What do you think will happen?

Does it remind you of any other stories?

Where do you think it is set?

Which animals do you think might be in this story?

Why do you think there is a clock? What does the time tell you?

Why is the clock so large on the page?

What do you think the title of the book is?

You do

What do you think will happen?

Does it remind you of any other stories?

Where do you think it is set?

Which animals do you think might be in this story?

Why do you think there is a clock? What does the time tell you?

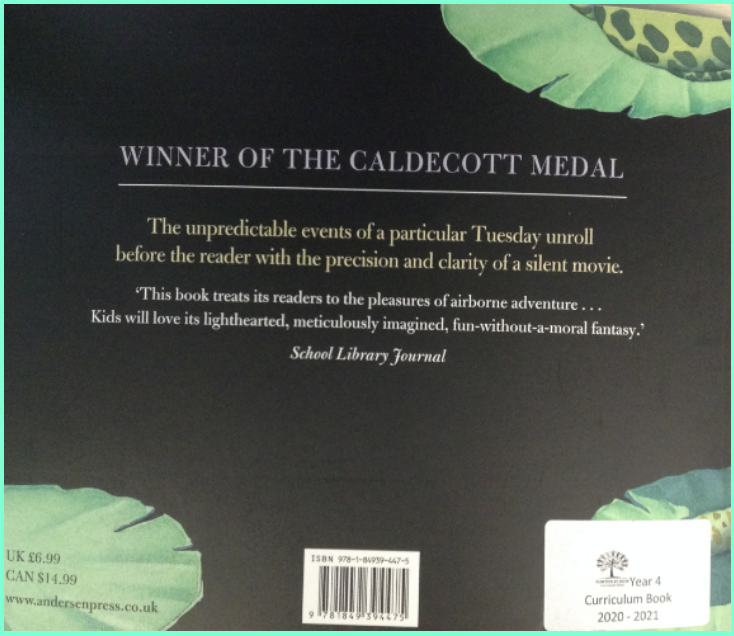

Why is the clock so large on the page?

What do you think the title of the book is?

What do you think the title of the book is?

Who is the author?

WINNER OF THE CALDECOTT MEDAL
The unpredictable events of a particular Tuesday unroll before the reader with the precision and clarity of a silent movie.
'This book treats its readers to the pleasures of airborne adventure . . . Kids will love its lighthearted, meticulously imagined, fun-without-a-moral fantasy.'
School Library Journal
UK £6.99
CAN $14.99
www.andersenpress.co.uk
Year 4
Curriculum Book
2020 - 2021