The Vikings were sea-pirates who came from the Scandinavian countries of Denmark, Sweden and Norway. Known as great explorers, they colonised parts of England, Scotland, Ireland and Europe before eventually settling in those places. When they invaded Britain, their major settlement was York. They invaded Britain because of its riches. In 793 AD, Viking pirates raided the monastery at Lindisfarne which terrified the monks. Although the monks described them as bloodthirsty barbarians, many were peaceful farmers.
