Dear grandad,

Are you feeling well? I thank you for the letter you kindly sent me. I was relieved to know you had heard from dad. Ever since I came to England I wanted to tell you what it is like. I hope you can come visit when you have recovered from your illness.

As soon as we got to Leeds we went to our new ^{apartment} in a luxury hotel. It is a really small so I have to share a toilet with everyone. We are at the top of the hotel so it is noisy but there is a picturesque, tranquil view of the city. The neighbours next door have a son but he is difficult to understand. My family and I feel so much safer here and I enjoy playing with my brothers in the colossal, shared garden although I do miss my old, original house. It rains a lot more here so at night I can hear the rain drops go pitter patter, pitter patter and the ^{doors} floorboards are strong so when we walk it goes BANG!

Can you spot some of the features we've discussed in class?

I do

Recently, I have started a new school, that is just down the street from my new home. On my first day, It is a large, modern school with lots of noisy children. Because I am new, the teacher gave me a buddy who looks after me, lots of extra support and a quiet space to sit if I need it. It is great to have a hot meal every day as well as a shiny, new pencil case. I have made some new friends but I miss my friends from home. At playtime, we play a new game called tig, I have tried some skipping and enjoyed laughing with my new friends. Maths is my favourite subject since I am good with numbers. My teacher is friendly and helpful although sometimes she can be strict. I miss you picking me up from school so we talk about you on the way home.
