

Tuesday 29th June
LO: To write a sequel

Read the WAGOLL with your partner.

What features can you find?

What do you like about the sequel?

Today you are going to write your own sequel.

What features are you going to include?

Who are your animals?

Where do they start?

Where do they go?

What happens to them?

How do they get back to their home?

Ido

Thursday

On a tranquil, cloudy Thursday evening at approximately 8 o'clock, something started crunching in the hay. Inside a spacious, windowless barn, a tiny, attentive mouse dozed peacefully curled up in the hay. As he lay, he heard some strange snorting noises which woke him from his slumber. In an instant, a pig started rising like jumbo jets and glided through the barn door. The poor, defenceless mouse, that had a good view of the barn door, watched in horror as pigs sailed through the air, the magnificent birds of the night sky.

We do

Write your own beginning of your sequel on your whiteboard. Use your plan to help.

Thursday

On a tranquil, cloudy Thursday evening at approximately 8 o'clock, something started crunching in the hay. Inside a spacious, windowless barn, a tiny, attentive mouse dozed peacefully curled up in the hay. As he lay, he heard some strange snorting noises which woke him from his slumber. In an instant, a pig started rising like jumbo jets and glided through the barn door. The poor, defenceless mouse, that had a good view of the barn door, watched in horror as pigs sailed through the air, the magnificent birds of the night sky.

You do

Write your beginning in your books.

Remember to write one line, miss a line.

Thursday

On a tranquil, cloudy Thursday evening at approximately 8 o'clock, something started crunching in the hay. Inside a spacious, windowless barn, a tiny, attentive mouse dozed peacefully curled up in the hay. As he lay, he heard some strange snorting noises which woke him from his slumber. In an instant, a pig started rising like jumbo jets and glided through the barn door. The poor, defenceless mouse, that had a good view of the barn door, watched in horror as pigs sailed through the air, the magnificent birds of the night sky.

Success Steps

Past tense.

Short sentences to move the story on

Range of conjunctions

Expanded noun phrases

Punctuation

Direct speech

Conditional conjunctions

Fronted adverbials

Adverbs

Embedded clause

Ed clauses as sentence openers